

L'estructura informativa en llengua de signes catalana (LSC)

Alexandra Navarrete-González
(Barcelona)

Summary: The goal of this research is to describe the syntactic, prosodic, and morpho-phonological markers that are found in Catalan Sign Language (LSC) to express different informational structural notions. Moreover, it offers a first approach to the expression of exhaustivity in LSC through different structures, such as focus particles and cleft constructions.

Keywords: Catalan Sign Language, topic, focus, contrast, focus particles, clefts, exhaustivity ■
